

Bird Banding at Salisbury University

Date: June 8, 2019

Time: 8 AM to 10 AM (If you can't make it at 8 AM, just come a little later.)

Meeting point: Environmental Studies house at Salisbury University

Address: 1206 Camden Ave in Salisbury, MD

Ornithologist (bird specialist) Professor Tami Ransom will show us how she uses mist nets to capture song birds, and how to measure and band them with an anklet. This helps to understand, where and when birds migrate, and to determine the number and species of birds in an area. This is a great opportunity to see birds up-close-and-personal! We will also do a class about bird flight, and a bird craft.
